The event attracted 12 families, with a total of 41 participants enthusiastically joining in! Under the guidance of the instructor, the fathers transformed into characters from storybooks, personally reading stories to their children. Each page turned was more than just words—it was a form of companionship; each spoken line was a long-missed, tender connection. As the fathers told stories and played roles, the room was filled with laughter and exclamations, making the concept of "home" feel closer than ever. In addition, parents and children worked together to create clay figures, crafting one-of-a-kind memories. Through play, learning, and collaboration, hearts grew closer. In this special event, we witnessed the sincere emotional connection between parents and children, and deeply felt the profound impact that family has on inmates.
